

Mom's Newsletter

Volume 21

-----
Number 4

Pope Ben 16 and Pam Ives Are Still Alive on "Dancing with the Stars"

Hollywood, CA (E-News) The team with a dream, Pamela (nee McMichael) Ives and Pope Benedict XVI are still alive in the ABC's Dancing with the Stars competition. Seen at the right awaiting their scores after their jazz/slow funk dance interpretation of "(She's A) Brickhouse," the duo wowed the crowd and judges with their innovative slant on the old Commodores classic. "Und let mich tell a you Katzes eine thing," said the Holy One while pointing at Pam, "She's a mighty-mighty!" Pam closed her eyes and pushed Ben 16 away, "Oh, you!" she said.

Their success has not surprised family or friends watching the show. "Since Jimmy Batchelder suffered another (self-inflicted?) groin pull, forcing himself and partner Heather Mills out of the contest, Pam and Ben16 are the favorites to win the whole thing," said insider Gary Gilbertson. "We haven't seen such a dancing synergy since the Mike Dapper/Michele Lenz-Noll juggernaut from the early eighties." Pam and Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church are now preparing for their next dance rumored to be a country-western theme, a 'strawberry roan meets (You Can) Keep Your (Red) Hat On ' to get into the championship."

Mini-MNL April Happenings

- Trevor Goodwin announces college choice: thousands of co-eds prepare to apply at school once he announces.
- Myles McKee wants to clarify that he is a "dancer, singer" not a "singer, dancer."
- Maggie Sears "can't wait to have a Diet Coke and see Lizzie" (in that order).
- Due to loss of nine witnesses, Cindi Ramm was found "not guilty" of forgery and was released. Congrats Cindi!

What Inventions Have We Overlooked This Year?

