"I hate inside jokes but who is that guy?"

HIGH COURT HIJINX DAPPER THE NEWEST SUPREME COURT JUSTICE?

(AP) Insiders throughout the beltway were surprised when President Bush named our own Michael Dapper as the newest associate justice of the US Supreme Court. And equally surprising, the U.S. Senate approved him the same afternoon.

"To tell you the truth," said the surprisingly dark-haired justice, "I thought Tom Teske was playing a prank on me. But when the robe came in the mail, I realized me and the wife were D.C.-bound."

Scholars around the world have been digging into his writings for clues on his legal leanings. A significant amount of scrutiny was focused on his early 911 News writings but Justice Dapper dismissed them as "just a bunch of crap I used to write with Sears and Don Smith." This casual denial of involvement has been successful as several law centers have stated that they have found no "substantial" indication of how Justice Dapper will vote. Another finding has focused around whether he will show up for cases as he views himself as "more or less of an 'afternoon person.'"

"He's a real enigma," said Law Professor Ken Peters. "This Dapper fellow will impact legal rulings for at least the next forty years. The word on the street is that he only became extremely interested in the position once he learned he could expunge criminal records."

When asked about Professor's comments, Justice Dapper remarked, "Forty years? I haven't had a full time gig since Jim & Joe's so I was thinking of doing it for a couple years and then retire early. However, I have already gotten calls from Jimmy Batchelder, Cindi Ramm and Gary Gilbertson. They all made a few mistakes in their youth and I told them that 'for $200, I can make it all go away.' And to no surprise to myself or Ruthie Ginsburg, I already got Cindi's cash."

RICE COUNTY HAPPENINGS...

- The loud spinning sound coming out of Maple Lawn Cemetery (this week) has been traced to Janer's immediate reaction to Ellen and John's purchase of a dog. The newest member of the Ramsey contingent is named Sparky Lou. "We are pretty impressed with Jane's ability to spin in the grave," said a Maple Lawn spokesperson, "especially since she was cremated."
- Aunt Lorraine and Uncle Bing's social calendar has been so booked up that they are now regularly refusing family visits as fast as they come in. "I love these kids," said Aunt Lorraine as she was packing for a two-week getaway to Bali, "but I can't be cooking and visiting all the time, I got places to go."
- Maggie is heading down to the University of Iowa this month. If either of her parents asks, tell them she is at Iowa State University. "That should buy me a few weeks of peace and quiet," said the anxious co-ed.
- Dixie Drager remains hard to find. Search parties continue to fan out in the Twin Cities on a regular basis for glimpses of the crimson-haired beauty. "This is the last time I join a group that has the phrase 'Witness Protection' on its logo," said Dixie.
- Dear sweet Michele Lenz-Noll's darling son Alec Noll is practicing to join the next big boy band. "The way I see it, these guys get all the chicks so, why shouldn't I join one?" Until he can con four or five other guys to join, he continues to practice "his moves" on his own. See Alec (aka 'A-Train') below.
