

Mom's Newsletter

August 2007

"Happy Birthday Lizard: Time is Time"

Volume 20, Number 6

Summer Doldrums Hit Readership No Subtle Humor: "Bring More Funny"

(Las Vegas) "I am sick of all the classy, sophisticated and urbane humor being produced by the Mom's Newsletter staff," crowed long-term subscriber Lorrie Beyl at the 2007 Readers Conference held in Las Vegas. She pleaded to "make an effort to work with more low-brow chuckles about my Catholic relatives and bring back the fart jokes and bawdy topics, and include my sisters and any of my shady Episcopal cousins, if possible."

Her heartfelt comments generated a fifteen minute standing ovation from the assembled crowd and caused the organizers to threaten to withhold the opening of the bar as an attempt to regain control of the crowd. "That Lorrie sure makes sense," remarked David Liverseed. "That is one of the reasons she is one of my favorite cousins, after Cookie Herring and Mike Lohrmann, the guy with the large orange head."

Only after the cheers died down did Lorrie agree to meet to clarify her concerns. "The newsletter is too high-toned with its references to people I don't know, men I have not dated seriously, recipes I don't like, rumors I haven't started and all the constant pictures of Aunt Joanie and that handsome husband of hers and most importantly, no recent pictures of me."

Demands Skyrockets for LBM Book "LBM and the Deadly Hairdressers"

(Central Avenue) The hallways throughout the west end of the Tempo shopping center were filled with kids and young adults dressed in the favorite Little Billy Miller (LBM) garb as they waited patiently for the release of the seventh and final book dealing with his adventures. Adorned with baseball caps, scraggly little chinny beards and blood-shot eyes, they watched the clock and waited quietly until 12:01am on July 21st for the chance to be the first in Rice Country to buy the book about the rapidly aging rock wizard and ex-veteran.

"The BM rules," said little Bobby Ress while he stood in line with his beer-stained T-shirt and a kiddie-sized Fender bass guitar.

"I can't wait to see all the cool adventures that LBM and his cousin Jimmy get into when they fight the deadly hairdressers."

The book was eagerly awaited which fueled internet rumors since the sixth book's ("Little Billy Miller and the Persistent Urinary Tract Infection") cliffhanger. "We join LBM's dozens of readers, in anticipating what quests lay ahead for our super hero, Little BM," said the Tempo night cleaning and maintenance staffs.

What is Bringing Shame to Faribault?

16% The Home of Gary Gilbertson

25% Annoying Pronunciation Attempts

17% Warm Smell of Blue Cheese

13% Rash of Groin Pulls

19% Dixie Drager's Refusal to Visit

10% Truax Clan

MNL Reader Quiz: WHO AM I?

- I have done two years in federal prison for both Arson and Forgery.
- I am a graduate of Faribault Senior High School, class of 1973.
- I am not a fan of personal hygiene.
- I shared a locker with Joan Carver.
- I don't like ham. I throw it on the floor. I give it to the cat.
- I owe Dapper $5000.
- The mob is actively searching for me.
- Each time the police see me, I am surrounded by local SWAT teams.

