Royal Family Excited About LBM:

Duchess of Westwood Finally Agrees to One on One Interview

(Moose Lodge) "We are very pleased with the final preparations," said official spokesperson and Grand Duchess of Westwood Princess Joanie Boysen. "I was just remarking to my dear cousin, Princess Margaret Sears, Duchess of Linden Hills, that things appear to be moving along swimmingly." Her highness then emphasized the fact that this wedding was going to be "the social highlight of the season" in the kingdom of Rice. "We have been inundated with press credentials and last minute demands from many of our more 'remote' relatives," said the Princess, "including the reasonable chance of seeing all four McMichael countesses in one location for the first time since 2001. I would like to be sitting near that table...if you know what I mean."

The rumors are beginning to swirl regarding the exact time and location of the couple's balcony clinch. "I hope they kiss somewhere on the fourth street parade route, maybe near Tower Liquor or the Piggly Wiggly," said royal watchers Roger Bongers and Gary Lazarz. "We are planning on getting there early and camping out in the Moose Lodge's parking lot."

The non-royal guest list has also been closely guarded with many questions surrounding the other celebrities attending and the names "Joan Olson Smith" and "James Albert Batchelder" are considered front-runners. "Batchelder is on the list thanks to his mother being held in high regard by the royals and Joan Olson Smith is just a great choice....unless her husband, Donald King

Smith, insists on being there," said insider Dixean Drager-Clooney. When asked if Mr. Smith was considered a less than desirable, Ms. Drager-Clooney said, "We view Mr. Smith as both troublesome and disruptive along with, surprisingly enough, many of your readers." When pressed for names, Ms. Drager-Clooney raised her diminutive hand and said, "Really, you can't figure it out? Really? Sheesh...Sarah Barnett, Dapper, Teske, Ann Dyste, Andy McGrory...come on. Mark Fielding?"

Further questions to Princess Joanie uncovered a literal treasure trove of new wedding details:

- The best man is Prince James Liverseed, third Duke of Earl.
- The wedding's theme is "Can You Believe Amy Actually Said Yes?" with little exclamation points and question marks used in place of the traditional rose petals.
- Alec Noll was commissioned to compose the wedding song to "celebrate this timeless love story." The song has not been heard but the title has been confirmed as "Really, Seriously, Can You Believe Amy Actually Said Yes?"
