"You Can Pick Your Friends but You Can't Pick Your Relatives"

August 2016

Reunion News and Notes

Discussions are underway to market the "My L'il Dirt Pile" that debuted at the reunion. This hot new toy will be out for the holiday season as it kept numerous children busy and active for the reunion's duration.

The reunion just obtained the trademark Billstock™ for future reunions. The new logo represents the need for understanding, peace and love of poultry.

The chicken balancing contest caused Faribault to suffer egg shortages last week. "One day, Amy and Bill are selling eggs, the next day, no eggs" said local expert Gary Lazarz. "The eggextra excitement slows things down awhile."

The family band (LB Miller and the Peckerheads) finally got together after many years of in-fighting on royalties and battles over creative differences. "I just want people to play in the same key," said founder and drummer Jim Liverseed. "One minute, LB is playing in G, Horsman is in E and Jeff is trying to use his Strat to open up the mustard bottle."

The band is also scheduled for the 2017 reunion gig. Tickets are still available for some lucky few.

Liz, Joanie Negotiating Patty Duke Franchise Reboot "Well, they certainly talk alike..."

(Hollywood) The duo of Joanie and Liz have been taking meetings all over Tinsel Town with a variety of studio exec's and their recent idea of a 2017 reboot of The Patty Duke Show into a more updated look of two actual cousins who may not look exactly alike but certainly sound alike when they are together.

"If I am not calling my John some other name," said older cousin Liz (and contested Spirit Award Winner), "I am making snarky remarks about distant relatives or airing grievances from the early 1970's." Joanie nods her head in agreement and says, "These days, the kids seems to be on The Facebook or sending texts, so you can have all kinds of hijinks with messages going to the wrong person. It may not be adoring a minuet or a crepes Suzette, but definitely it can be about a girl from Southern Heights." Her cousin Liz nodded back and said, "This idea just drips of multiple Emmy awards. Just drips!"

Cousin Lorrie is also in negotiations to join the show in eye candy/comic relief role. "They are more old birds than spring chickens," said Lorrie. "I will be there unless an oat needs rolling or Tom needs a foot rub. Maybe a few McMichael gals show up to sing."
