Joanie Throws Cute One-Two Punch "Two Beats One Anytime"

(New Market)

The rumors began early in Faribault and moved north to Zimmerman and beyond: the two new grandmothers were in the middle of a classic Miller family throw-down. "I don't know who would win a fight," said first cousin L.B. Miller, "but anyone going up against Joanie will be defeated. Ooh, just look how my arm hair is standing up! Spooky...."

Still smarting from her upstart cousin's October activities involving with grandchild, Avery-Jeffrey Beyl, Joanie went on the offensive with the public release (see above) her Halloween pictures with grandchildren Chase and Grace. "Let's see what Lorrie does now," said the youthful senior citizen. "I know I am not playing fair," said the fiftyish but still honey-haired grandma. "But when I got these two little cutie pies at my disposal, I can send a message to a certain cousin that I can cute it up just as good as she can. Snap! And Snap again!"

"The move was simple but ruthless," said PFC Andy Lohrmann. "The aggressor (Lorrie) surprised Joanie with the demonstration but Joanie initiated an effective and patient counterattack." Other family members praised her campaign but refused to be quoted directly in fear of being at the receiving end of a potential new Joanie retribution effort (except for Andy). "This conflict is over and the fragile cuteness balance of power has now been restored," sighed the red-headed warrior.

Readership Holiday Messages "East West, Home is Best"

- Mike 'BH' Lohrmann has two messages for the family and the readers: "The first is 'Feliz Navidad y Próspero Año Nuevo' and the other is 'Buon Natale e Felice Anno Nuovo' and we are going to find out which is which in early 2008."
- Mike Dapper has been spending this holiday time waxing nostalgic and wants to share memories of an earlier time. "I always enjoyed working at Jim & Joe's over the holidays. I would put in about sixty hours a week during my school break and take home about eighty dollars since I was making a dollar thirty-five an hour. I am an idiot."
- Alec Noll, Trevor Goodwin and John McGrory want to emphasize they all now have their driver licenses and are available for mistletoe deliveries across the state. "I figure John has southern Minnesota, Trevor has the north and west metro and I have the south and east," mused Alec. "There shouldn't be any need for any lonely ladies to have a blue Christmas."
- Susie Meads sends her best and the following note to all MNL subscribers: "I have only a few months left at the spa (Editor's Note: maximum security prison) but I am planning a quiet holiday dinner with a few close friends (Editor's Note: guards) and family (Editor's Note: gang members)."
- Lorrie Beyl is staying home and has the neighbor kid starting her car. "No hard feelings, Joanie?"
- Long-time subscriber Mark Fielding wants to send a hootin'-hollering Kentucky shout-out to the other MNL readers. "It will be a good old time down here so y'all have yourselves a happy and festive new year and pass the Hawaiian Punch and grits!"
