Sarah Barnett Has It "Up to Here" Declares Herself "One Person Truth Squad"

(Minneapolis) Sarah Barnett has finally had enough hypocrisy and has opened up her own business by declaring herself "a one person truth squad" and has begun franchising herself as the one who will tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the hella-truth."

She has taken on the challenge to "root out" faulty and unwarranted social obligations and will strive to return her clients to a "clearer conscience with significantly more free time." Furthermore, when asked for the additional motivations of her new endeavor, she teared up and said, "I am doing it for all undergrads, paying customers and my dog, Veritas." In front of her new office, Sarah went on to thank her mentors by saying, "I have learned at the feet of some of the greatest truth-tellers, including my father, Jane Sears, Liz Taylor, Jenny Ayre and both my Grandmothers."

Her services will include lifestyle evaluations, client home visits, new-release videos recommendations, preferred nap locations, call screening techniques and selective listening exercises. She will also give lectures with topics including, "How to Avoid Buzzkill," "Time Management Tips and Tricks," "Who Do I Have to Kill to Get a Cup of Coffee?", and her recently trademarked and highly original "Your Priorities Do NOT Translate Into My Priorities®" interpretive dance.

At end of the press conference, she waved at the reporters and said, "Okay, time for you guys to go. I have some things to do so get up out of your chairs and hit the road, except for the cute guy wearing the hat, everyone else can scoot!"
