MNL April Volunteer Month: Our Readers Give Back

(Faribault) "Now, you can see on your old contact sheet, all the Federal Reserve and Treasury seals are all smudged," said Lorraine Miller to a group of young, eager learners at the recent Volunteer Day sponsored by Mom's Newsletter, "You will have to clean the plates with benzene and run another new contact sheet. Oh, make sure you have inserted a new security thread. The feds will look for that."

She wiped her hands and winked at the reporter and said, "They'll soon get the hang of it; even Lorrie and Maggie were printing sheets of twenties just after a few months." A long-time "currency hobbyist," Lorraine was part of a group giving back to the Rice County youth, "it helps keep the smarter kids off the street, and gives them an opportunity to learn a new hobby. By the way, you're not with Treasury, are you?"

Other MNL volunteers doing their civic duty included a primer on double-entry accounting by Mark Fielding ("It is more of a double-book accounting theory of mine. You start with having two sets of books and you keep one at your neighbor's house") and [Name Blacked Out] (name blacked out by ongoing Interpol investigation) who presented a free-wheeling presentation on "The Tricks and Tips for Insider Stock Trading." The presenter, speaking from behind a black curtain, encouraged the children to "keep their listening ears" on at all times, even if it meant the use of "sophisticated" eavesdropping equipment. "We appreciate all the folks lending a hand," said Faribault Mayor Ken Peters, "these young children are our future and we need to show them the right way to understand and use our Constitution, especially the fourth amendment and how to deal with unreasonable searches and seizures. Thanks again, Lorraine!"
